LOCALETS

Frank Newton and George Hodgins left on Wednesday for Dryden, Ont., to commence residence duties on the homesteads taken up by them there last fall. The men say that this location of their's has a reputation for never-failing rainfall. H. W. Enders accompanied them to Dryden on a prospecting tour of his own.

J.W. Hill was also among the Masonic Grand Lodge attendants from Lomond at Edmonton during the week.

The Vulcan Masonic Lodge is organizing a picnic to be held at the Gleichen bridge on Wednesday July 12, to which all Masons and their families are invited.

Mrs. Haskeyne and children spent the week with Mrs. Haskeyne's sister, Mrs. N. Holden. On Wednesday Mrs. Holden and her sister, accompanied by Mrs. Elves and Mrs. Forster, made an auto trip to Lethbridge.

General Supt. Cameron, accompanied by three or four of his lieutenants, visited along this line last week coming in by auto-speeder.

W.H. Smith took a flying trip to Lethbridge on Wednesday.

Laurence Cornell of the Enchant district was committed to the Lethbridge jail for one month on a cruelty to animals charge, for maltreating his horses. Constable Cawsey prosecuted, and third conviction on similar offences.

Constable Cawsey took to Ponoka this week Mr. Henchcliff of Bow City. This man was on parole from the institution which could not further be substantiated.

Miss Margaret Barr of Bow City stayed with Mrs. Walkey during the week while Dr. Walkey was in Edmonton. Miss Barr sang at the Ladies' Aid meeting on Thursday evening and at the Sunday evening church evening.

Word has been received that J. I. Rickett has succumbed to the lingering illness to which he had been a prey for the past few years. Death took place at LeGrande, Oregon, interment also being made there.

The postponed annual convention of the U. F. A. District Association took place at Enchant on Friday, there being a fair attendance of delegates with enough additional interested spectators to fill the hall. A resolution from Badger Lake Local recommending that the provincial government be asked to investigate and if feasible adopt a plan of provincial crop insurance, was the subject of a very interesting debate, with interesting points of argument being introduced by L. Peterson, M.L.A., and by P. Tompkins, the relief agent at Lomond, whose home is at Grouard in the Peace River country. The conclusions gained would lead one to believe that, while the south appears to be the heavy sufferer at present, it has no particular corner on crop failures. This is an advanced theory and requires a good deal of investigation before a final recommendation can be made. The out controversy with the U. G. G. was referred to a committee of five men who will wait upon C. Rice-Jones, the president of the company, who is making a business visit to Enchant on the 23rd. Assistance of the Department of Agriculture is also to be solicited in the matter. The question was raised as to the responsibility of the Canada Land & Irrigation Co. and other corporations with regard to setting out grasshopper bait on their large holdings of vacant land. The idea appeared to prevail that special favor was being shown in allowing them exemption. Mr. Asplund, the grasshopper expert, was present and explained that in view of the shortage of bran used in the making of bait it was considered the only wise policy to pursue to try and protect the growing crops in the first instance rather than enforce the particular principle involved. Perhaps the most fiery debate of all centered around the lease presented to farmers by the mortgage companies in the exercise of the landlord privilege extended to them by legislation at the last session of the provincial legislature. One lease copy exhibited at the convention contained a definite one-third clause without stipulation or reservation. The point of argument centered around whether a mortgage company could lay claim to the entire third provided a man's indebtedness was more than covered by the proceeds from that share of the crop. Explanations of the meaning of the Act were forthcoming to the effect that the mortgage company could claim only the amount of arrears accrued and the interest for the current year. It was then felt that the government should prescribe a uniform style

"She Might Have Been Your Daughter"

(Reprinted from "The Globe," Toronto, and distributed by Venereal Disease Branch, Provincial Department of Health, Alberta.)

She married in her early twenties. The dew of heaven was on her brow. The light of heaven was in her eyes. In her heart the love throbbed big and glad, that makes for all the world the Eden of innocence and beauty and truth. As she walked down the aisle of the church, going out on that strange new journey of life, so queenly was she, so winsome, so undefiled, had she been your daughter your heart would have swelled with holy pride, and hope for her in her new home would have been high and confident and strong.

But when the home door closed her good angels must have wept, for in the darkness an enshrouded pestilence walked, whose coming cast no shadow and whose footsteps made no sound upon the stairs.

Never again was she to know happiness, or purity, or health. Children came to the home—one, two, three, each with its own entail of sorrow, and bearing, seen or unseen, the brand more inescapable, more inevitable, more mysteriously persistent than any brand of Cain. And through years of torture, in every joint of agony, and along every nerve of pain, she herself in her own body and soul paid the wages of his sin that was not her sin. The innocent suffered for the guilty. The harvest of horror and unspeakable anguish was reaped long years after, by hands that did not sow the accursed seed.

Yes! she might have been your daughter.

Her name is Legion. You will find her in every hospital in Canada, in every Home for Incurables; and her ill-fated children, whom even her divinest love could not save from the penalty of their father's unspoken heedless sin against the inexorable Law of Nature, they jabber in the wards of the feeble-minded, and are in that endless procession which, through all centuries, have crowded the asylums for the insane.

Of course, it is the Old Story. It is old as human sin. It is monotonous as the endless procession of human life. It is majestic and merciless as the organic law of human society. No man liveth to himself, or dies to himself alone. The law of transgression runs "unto the third or fourth generations of them that hate"; but the law of chastity and purity and obedience works redemptively "unto thousands of them that love."

But it's Law. For weal or for woe it is Law. The soul that sinneth it shall die. That eternal law is no respecter of persons. And by the organic law of the social order we are all bound up together, for blessing and for cursing, in family circles, in community groups, in national commonwealths.

And you can't afford—all you who pass by—you can't afford to be unconcerned when, in a world like this, the arrow that flieth by day may fetch a wide circuit round by your home, and when the pestilence that walketh in darkness may touch with tragedy the apple of your eye.

She might have been your daughter—that innocent victim of our enshrouded social sin. The sin is still here in a thousand forms and guises. The pestilence walks every night in the social world where he lives who may one day be the partner of your daughter's home. It is nothing to you that he be warned and that she be saved?

Play with forked lightning if you will, but to him that plays fast and loose with this eternal law of human society all experience says "Thou Fool!"

A number of changes in the color of Canadian postage stamps are being made to conform with the new international regulations. A straw colored one-cent stamp is being issued to replace the old green one-cent stamp which has been in use many years, and as the various post offices exhaust their supply of green stamps, they will be replaced with the new issue. The red two-cent stamp is being replaced by a green stamp, and should a six-cent stamp ever be issued, it will take the red color hitherto distinguishing the two-cent stamp. The five-cent stamp is of a violet shade, while the ten-cent stamp is blue.

Good Sport

☛ Don't be a "sport"—as per the vulgar interpretation associated with that term—but set about to enjoy some line of good sport.

☛ Make a hobby of some game, be it base ball, foot ball, tennis, golf, fishing or shooting. Set aside a reasonable amount of your time and devote it to your own peculiarly chosen hobby.

☛ Like David Harum's fleas, a reasonable amount of sport will keep you from "broodin' over bein' a dog." It has a most refreshing result, both physically and mentally. No more emphatic argument could be used than the bye-word of Europe, "Lloyd-George does it."

of lease to be used by mortgage companies and written in such a manner to be easily intelligible to the average person outside of the legal profession. Irrigation received but short consideration, a report of the progress only being given and no discussion following. In the matter of handling further subsistence relief, the executive was empowered to appoint the necessary committees to investigate and report on the various applications, as suggested by the Minister of Agriculture.

Realizing the gravity of the present crop situation and in view of the fact that the afternoon was then all but spent, the delegates authorized the calling of a special convention to be held at Lomond on Saturday, July 8th. The method of procedure will be for each U. A. Local to call a public mass meeting in its respective area at which local ideas can be concentrated into effective resolutions. These local mass meetings will elect delegates to the Lomond convention in a ratio of one in ten. This method is being employed so as not to make the convention void thru unwieldiness. Of course a good drenching period of rain would alter the sentiment, but as it stands there are a good many people demanding assistance to get to some favorable location. This country is obligated so heavily now that any radical policy must not be allowed to gain a foothold. At the same time these people are too good a class of settlers for Canada to lose. As far as The Press can see, and given a continuation of the drouth, Lomond bids fair to entertain about two thousand people on July 8th.

In the election of officers the business was quickly disposed of by returning by acclamation the last year officers. They are as follows:

President, Rae L. King.
Vice-Pres., Mrs. M. Hill.

Sec.-Treas., Rev. F. Forster.

Each affiliated local will now elect its own director and report same to the secretary, and also remit affiliation dues for the current year.

In the evening there were three speakers. Mrs. McKinney of Claresholm made an able defence for the "intrusion" of women into public affairs generally and politics particularly. She maintains that woman has but recently come to the realization that it was within her capacity to assume some of the important obligations of public affairs. She was as hesitant about taking the step as was man in submitting to her the privilege. She holds that the viewpoint of man and woman cannot always converge, and that a conciliatory compromise must be adopted in order that society might most rapidly progress. Mrs. McKinney, while undoubtedly an optimist, does not accord the present area as Utopian simply because there is a U.F.A. government in power. She sees plenty of work ahead for the women in the advancement of educational and health conditions as well as in the protection of prohibition. She advocates that woman encourage a higher standard of morality in the conduct of public affairs.

Laurence Peterson, M. L. A., gave a resume of the work of last session of the legislature. We make no attempt to report his remarks in detail, suffice it to say, that the audience expressed its evident gratefulness for his efforts in no uncertain manner.

Of course the main centre of interest was the illustrated lecture by Prof. Ottewell, entitled "The Canada of To-morrow." Prof. Ottewell is not a slave to precedence or sequence, but has a message of optimism which he unfailingly impresses upon the minds of his hearers. He find of humor is not used sparingly nor did he presume to speak beyond the paths of the commonplace. His illustrations touched Canada from the well of the immortalized Evangeline in Nova Scotia to the Lovers' Cove on Vancouver Island. His observations were distinctly from political aversions in their common acceptance, yet his conclusions were based upon a familiarity with historical data, and the probable reaction of mankind under similar circumstances. He remarked that while man had in the last century developed his ability of production about fifty fold, the mass of people had not benefited to a relative extent owing to no equitable system yet being devised to apportion the accumulated surplus. This is not so difficult to explain. In days of old there was no surplus to create a problem. His theory is that if man could solve the problem of production so effectively he is that better fitted to tackle what is so glibly termed the economic problem. The future of the West is at the mercy of transportation facilities. Cheap, efficient transportation there must be or the exportable surplus can not compete in the world's markets. The speaker's greatest concern is for the growing generations of Canadians. With these the destiny of the future must be entrusted and great care should be taken to inculcate in them the principles of true manhood and citizenship.
